Moaralmsee - Bärfallspitze

Route description: From Haus im Ennstal we take the 8-seater cable car & the Kaiblinggrat chairlift to the Berggasthof Scharfetter to Hauser Kaibling. Through the hiking trail #780 we hike to the Roßfeldsattel, where we branch off the trail #45 and hike slightly down to the Moaralmsee. After around 2 hours, we reach the lake and enjoy the marvelous scenery around the lake with the imposing Höchstein as a backdrop. After our rest, we hike west of the lake quite steeply up to the Seescharte, from where we then ascend northwards to the Bärfallspitze and enjoy a marvelous view. From there we hike downhill back to the Roßfeldsattel and from there back to the mountain station of the Schladminger Tauern cable car.

The path climbs evenly and without steep sections to the Neualm, which you reach after approx. 1 1/2 hours of walking time. After a short rest at the Obertalbach, you branch off again out of the valley at the Neualm onto the hiking trail towards Duisitzkarlake. Surefootedness is required here due to the many roots on the one hand and the short, steep sections on the other. After another 1 1/2 hours of walking, you reach the Duisitzkarlake at 1.640 metres above sea level. Strengthened by a snack in one of the huts, you set off on the last section of the tour-downhill from the Duisitzkarlake back to the Eschachalm starting point.

Under the Dachstein south face through the gate

Directions: From the valley station of the Dachstein cable car station, we hike to the Südwandhütte and from there continue under the Dachstein south faces to the gate, the cut between Rauchheck and Torstein. We then continue downhill towards the Bachlalm. Shortly before we reach it, we turn left and continue towards the Neustattalm and further to the Glösalalm, from where we hike back to the valley station. You almost always get to see chamois and marmots on this hike. It is also important to take enough drinks with you, as there are rarely springs and streams in the limestone of the Dachstein mountains to fill up the water supplies.

Meeting point: 9:15 a.m. – valley cable car station Dachstein (also accessible with the hiking bus line 960*)

HM: 968 m ascent, 968 m descent, 13.25 km

Walking time: 6 – 7 hours

Refreshments available: Südwandhütte, Pernerhütte

Requirements: surefootedness, endurance, good physical condition

Equipment: possibly hiking poles, ankle-high shoes, sufficient drinks and snacks, backpack, rain protection

Ursprungalm – Rotmandl – Keinprechthütte

Directions: From Planet Planai, we take the bus to the Ursprungalm. We hike uphill to the Preuneggsattel and follow the road on the southern shore of the larger Giglachsee to the Zaineralm. Now we follow trail #702 – at first only moderately ascending – until we come across the remains of the wall of an old miner's dwelling at the end of the Knappenkar. Here the path begins to become steeper and leads with some serpentines to the Rotmandlspitze. Continue after the Rotmandlscharte over a large boulder slag heap slightly downhill to the Kruckeckscharte. From there, downhill in large serpentines – with breathtaking views of the surrounding mountain scenery – we reach the Keinprechthütte, where we take a well-deserved break. From the Keinprechthütte we follow hiking trail #774 downhill to the Neualm and then on to the Eschachalm in the Obertal, from where we take the bus back to Planet Planai.

Meeting points: 8:10 a.m. – Planet Planai Schladming

HM: 772 m ascent, 882 m descent, 9.15 km

Walking time: 7 – 8 hours

Refreshments available: Keinprechthütte, Ignaz Mattis Hütte

Requirements: surefootedness, endurance, good physical condition

Equipment: possibly hiking poles, ankle-high shoes, sufficient drinks and snacks, backpack, rain protection

Ramsauer Königsetappe

Directions: From the "Guttenberghaus" car park, we hike on trail #616 (forest road) to the Lärchbodenalm and over the stony feeder path through a large mountain pine field to the valley station of the Guttenberghaus cable car. From there, the path leads us quite steeply and over serpentines to the Feisterkar and to the highest refuge in Styria - the Guttenberghaus. After a rest, we climb up to the Feisterer Scharte and hike along trail #616 to the "Am Stein" area. After about 1 hour of walking, trail #66 branches off to the Hölltalsee, which we reach in about another hour. The beautifully colored, turquoise lake is in a basin surrounded by steep slopes, limestone walls, and mountain pine fields. On the shore of the lake, we have earned another break. The way back leads us over the Stangalm into the Silberkar. Through the impressive Silberkar Gorge, we finally reach the Silberkar car park, from where we hike back to the starting point.

Mountain Lake Trail: Giglachseen and Duisitzkarsee

Directions: We take the bus from Planet Planai to the Ursprungalm, from here we hike uphill for about an hour on trail #771 before we can pick up the breathtaking view of the Giglachseen. At the Giglachkar, the route passes by the Giglachseehütte and along the Giglachseen on trail #702 to the Ignaz-Mattis-Hütte. At the lower end of the big Giglachsee we meet trail #776 at the Hüttstatt. We hike this slightly downhill for a few minutes to the wayside cross #776/775. A short look back at the Giglachkar with the meandering stream, and we now take our path on trail #775. Along the mountain folds, it goes slightly uphill to the Murspitzsattel on the ridge of the Ferchtlhöhe, from where the Duisitzkarsee is already winking at us. At the beginning, along a short rope insurance and quite steeply downhill, we hike into the larch forest that surrounds this picturesque mountain lake. Soon we have reached the lake and marvel at the mountain world that is reflected in the lake. After a rest at the Duisitzkarseehütte or the Fahrlechlütte, the last descent leads to the end of the hike, the Eschachalm.

Stoderzinken - Ahornsee - Weißenbach

Directions: We take the bus from Planet Planai to Gröbming and then take the Stoderzinken shuttle bus to our starting point. At the beginning we pass the Rosemi Alm. The trail goes uphill to the wayside cross near the Stoderhütte. Continue along the road to the Brünnerhütte and then turn sharply left onto trail #618, past the Notgasse junction. After a steep climb, you will reach the "Schwiegermutterssprung," which offers a fantastic view of the Ahornsee. Here we can take a break. We continue hiking to the Grafenbergalm and from there on trail #668 eastwards downhill to the Grafenbergsee and Ahornsee. An extensive rest at one of the lakes is recommended, as the descent to Weißenbach is partly steep and rocky. The hike is in the moderately difficult range and can be easily mastered with sufficient endurance and a little surefootedness. At the hunting lodge on the valley floor, it is worth taking a 5-minute detour to the Gradenbach waterfall before you hike down into the valley and refresh your feet in the Kneipp facility.

Riesachsee – Preintalerhütte

Directions: After the journey to the end of the Untertal in Rohrmoos (best with the hiking bus of the Planai-Hochwurzen-Bahnen, line 974), you start the hike at the Almgasthaus Riesachfall. Right at the beginning of the alpine trail, you will be "greeted" by the rushing water. The path through the "Höll" winds along the thundering Riesach waterfall and requires us to be sure-footed with the numerous steep steps and stones. A head for heights is particularly important when passing the imposing suspension bridge. Then continue over steps and ladders until you reach the Gföller Alm. From here, trail no. 777 leads along the banks of Lake Riesach to the alpine huts. After the Berallerhütte at the Kotalm, a moderately steep ascent along the wildly rushing stream to the Preintalerhütte and Waldhornalm (1,656 m), which are located at the intersection of many hiking trails, awaits you. The hike then takes you back along the same path. If you don't feel prepared for the alpine trail "through hell" to the Riesach, the family-friendly forest path is recommended.
